Collins arrested

Rusty Collins, who escaped custody December 28 while at the Jackson hospital, was arrested two days later at his Grand Avenue home by Lee County Deputy Sheriff Matt Eversole. Collins had been lodged at the Three Forks Regional Jail when he was transported to Jackson in the early morning hours of December 28. He had been serving time for manufacturing methamphetamine in the first degree and wanton endangerment in the first degree.

Parole hearings scheduled

Parole hearings are set this month for four people convicted in Lee County and four convicted in Owsley County. One of the individuals, William A. Dotson, was convicted in both counties. Dotson was first convicted in Owsley County on January 6, 2014 for receiving stolen property over $500, but under $10,000. On March 24, 2014 he was convicted of being a felon in possession of a firearm. Then on April 24, 2014, back in Owsley County, he was convicted again of receiving stolen property. He is lodged in the Three Forks Regional Jail. Dotson is parole eligible in March. James F. Deaton was convicted of trafficking in a controlled substance on October 17, 2014 in Lee County. Lodged in the Kentucky State Reformatory, he is eligible for parole in March. Christopher Neace is in the Christian County Jail. He was convicted for promoting contraband in the first degree on November 23, 2009 in Lee County. Neace will be parole eligible in March. Laura Osborne was convicted in Lee County on January 21, 2014 for promoting contraband in the first degree and possession of a controlled substance in the first degree. She is eligible for parole in March. Sheila Baker was convicted of possession of a controlled substance in the first degree and manufacturing methamphetamine on October 6, 2014 in Owsley County. She is parole eligible this month. She is lodged in the Three Forks Regional Jail. Gary Bowling was convicted on October 6, 2014 in Owsley County for possession of a controlled substance in the first degree and manufacturing methamphetamine. Bowling is in the Three Forks Regional Jail. He is parole eligible this month. Heather Marshall, convicted on September 11, 2013 in Owsley County, is parole eligible in March. Marshall is lodged in the Western Kentucky Correctional Complex after being convicted of being a felon in possession of a handgun, possession of a controlled substance in the first degree and manufacturing methamphetamine.

Tips given for pipe protection

With frigid temperatures and wind chills expected in the coming days, the Kentucky Division of Water reminds citizens to protect the water systems in their homes and businesses from freezing. When water freezes, it expands. When water freezes in a pipe and expands enough, the pipe bursts, water escapes and serious damage results. Pipes in attics, crawl spaces and outside walls are all vulnerable to freezing, especially if there are cracks or openings that allow cold outside air to flow across the pipes. To keep pipes from freezing, wrap hot and cold water pipes in insulation or layers of newspaper, covering the newspapers with plastic to keep out moisture. Allow a trickle of water to run from a cold faucet that is farthest from the water meter or one that has frozen in the past. This will keep the water moving so that it cannot freeze and will help relieve pressure should ice form in the pipes. Open kitchen and bathroom cabinet doors to allow warm air to circulate around the pipes. If pipes freeze, remove the insulation, completely open all the faucets and pour hot water over the pipes or wrap them with towels soaked in hot water, starting where they are most exposed to the cold. You may also use a hand-held hair dryer or electric heating pad if there is no standing water. Apply heat until full water pressure is restored. Do not use a blowtorch, kerosene or propane heater, charcoal stove or other open flame device to thaw a pipe. A blowtorch can make water in a frozen pipe boil and cause the pipe to explode. All open flames in homes present a serious fire danger, as well as a severe risk of exposure to lethal carbon monoxide. If you are unable to locate or reach the frozen area, call a licensed plumber.

Still waiting

Members of the Lee County Board of Health are to meet next week to discuss their next move in the renovation of the former Peoples Exchange Bank. Health Center Director Vivian Smith says that four bids received in November were all too high. The health department has $700,000 to change the building into a health center.

Cold Cases

New year begins, cold cases remain

The Kentucky State Police Post in Richmond has 26 cold murder cases; six of them are from Owsley County. That is second only to Madison County's seven. Listed here are the Owsley cases that have gone unsolved. Danny McDaniel was found shot to death on September 19, 2002 in his residence on County Line Road. He was a white male, 37 years old. Daniel "Whitey" Mayes was shot to death on March 24, 1997 at a residence on KY 1768, seven miles south of Booneville. He was a 23-year-old white male. Brenda Sue Davidson and her husband Michael Dale Davidson were found shot to death in their residence on Water Street in Booneville on November 6, 1988. She was a 28-year-old white female and he was a 27-year-old white male. Perry A Clark and a friend were both shot on September 27, 1987 while canoeing on the Southfork of the Kentucky River, just inside Owsley County at the Clay County line. Both victims were shot from ambush by one or more assailants from the bank of the river. Clark died at the scene. The other victim survived his wounds and was able to escape. Clark was a 35-year-old white male from Nicholasville.

Pearl Barrett was reported missing from Booneville on or about December 25, 1981. His remains were found on August 26, 1983 in a wooded area off of a small blacktop road one mile north of Booneville. Barrett was a 50-year-old white male. Anyone with information about any of these cases is asked to contact Kentucky State Police Lt. Chris Steward at (859) 623-2404 or Chris.Steward@ky.gov.

Conduct public’s business in the light of day

The Kentucky Standard

To all the new and returning elected officials sworn in this week, welcome.

Running a campaign for elected office can be hard. But representing voters can be even harder.

When you are running for office you often have lots of supporters. Some of those supporters will stick by you, but others will be disappointed in views or votes or actions you take. That is the burden and consequence of leadership.

You will come under unfair criticism. Anyone who has been in office for any amount of time will tell you that you need to quickly develop a thick skin.

Public officials need to remember that they were elected to represent their districts, not their supporters. That will include hearing from those with opposing viewpoints and talking out differences, often in a public forum.

No one likes to take criticism and make unpopular decisions. It is human nature to try to work out such issues in private.

But each of you was elected to conduct the public’s business, and that business is conducted in public.

Kentucky has been recognized as one of the top states when it comes to our sunshine laws — requirements for open records and open meetings.

If you are new to serving, you need to read up on them and understand them clearly. And incumbents would do well to give them a good review. Because each of you will sign a document attesting that you have received the Attorney General’s guide to open records and open meetings. It’s titled “Your Duty Under the Law,” and you will see it soon enough.

This is not a document for File 13. This is the rulebook for how to conduct open and transparent government, which is key to the maintaining the public’s trust.

There are exceptions to open meetings, but they are narrow and are probably the most abused law by elected officials. Those are listed on

A couple of things to remember: When going into closed session, you have to tell the public why and list the specific exemption. Is it to discuss proposed or pending litigation? Or future acquisition of land? There are 12 such exemptions — learn them.

Probably one of the most common rulings against local legislative bodies is the exemption for “discussions that could lead to the appointment, dismissal, or discipline of an individual employee, member or student.”

But the next sentence is key: “However, general personnel matters may not be discussed in private.”

That rule is violated many times throughout the state. It has been violated in this county. If this newspaper becomes aware of such a violation, we will call you on it. Oftentimes, the members who violate it are only trying to protect an employee’s “privacy,” such as discussing an employee’s work performance when determining if she deserves a raise. That’s a nice thought, but it is illegal.

When in doubt, ask your lawyer and err on the side of sunshine. The public has a right to know how its business is being conducted, not only what decisions are made, but how those decisions are formulated.

There are times when a legislative body goes into closed session and the conversation veers to another topic that is prohibited. It is every one of the members’ responsibilities in that meeting to object. No one likes a tattletale, but that is your duty.

This newspaper receives notice of every open meetings violation issued by the Kentucky Attorney General. The number of violations, and their reasons, can be disheartening.

Often, the public body or member will plead ignorance.

Ignorance is no defense for obscuring the sunshine on the public’s business.

Prepare for cold weather as temperatures plummet

KU offers cold weather safety tips ahead of this week’s frigid front

New Year’s 2015 arrived less than a week ago, but already it’s sending temperatures in the area plummeting. With single digits temperatures and subzero wind chills expected by mid-week, Kentucky Utilities Company encourages customers to prepare for the extreme cold.

•Have your furnace checked by a certified professional to make sure it’s in peak operating condition. Remember to check your filter each month and replace it as necessary, based on the manufacturer’s recommendations. A dirty filter will slow air flow, making the system work harder to keep the indoor air temperature at a consistent, comfortable setting.

•Seal leaks and gaps around your home with caulk, spray foam, or weather-stripping to keep the warm air in and the cold air out.

•Build an emergency kit that includes a battery-powered radio, flashlights for everyone in the family, fresh batteries for any devices, first-aid kit, and over-the-counter and prescription medications. A list of more essential emergency kit supplies can be found at www.ready.gov.

•Always operate a portable generator safely and outdoors to allow for proper venting. It’s best to consult with a qualified, licensed electrician and review the manufacturer’s instructions before installing the generator.

•Strong wind, snow and ice accumulation can sometimes cause tree branches to break and fall into power lines. Stay away and consider all fallen wires dangerous.

•KU customers should call 800-981-0600 to report a downed wire or power outage. And, KU customers can also report an outage online at lge-ku.com after registering their account.

•Be sure to use LG&E and KU’s outage map on your computer or smartphone, www.lge-ku.com/storm, to receive near real time information about outages throughout our system, a summary of outages by zip code and county, and estimated restoration time.

•Community Winterhelp, the utility’s primary heating assistance program, is available to customers who have difficulty paying their heating bills during the winter months.

•KU is once again matching residential customers’ donations to the program, $1 for $1, creating a greater pool of funds to help those having a tough time keep their families comfortable during the frigid conditions.

•With the match in effect from October 1, 2014 through March 31, 2015, the utility encourages customers to consider making a tax-deductible donation to the program by making a monthly pledge or a one-time contribution. Even rounding up a payment to the next whole dollar makes a difference.

About the program

•Community Winterhelp is a third-party nonprofit organization, typically a Community Action Agency, that helps customers in financial crises pay their heating bills.

•Eligibility for heating assistance benefits is determined by the Community Winterhelp nonprofit organization. The program assists families in dire financial situations and lack of resources, leaving a family with no heat or the immediate prospect of no heat; and families with a family member who is elderly, very young, seriously ill or disabled. Neither KU or LG&E plays a part in determining eligibility.

•Families in need of assistance will be interviewed by Community Winterhelp service partners and should contact the agency to apply for funds.

Kentucky Utilities, part of the PPL Corporation (NYSE: PPL) family of companies, is a regulated utility that serves 539,000 customers in 77 Kentucky counties and five counties in Virginia. It has consistently ranked among the best companies for customer service in the United States. More information is available at www.lge-ku.com and www.pplweb.com.

RETURNING CLOUDINESS

Today’s cataract surgery makes use of an ultrasound probe to break up and remove the cloudy eye lens. Left behind is the lens capsule, which once held the natural lens in place and is later used to hold the replacement artificial lens. More than 90 percent of patients experience improved vision immediately after cataract surgery. For some, however, the blurriness returns months or years afterward due to posterior capsule opacity, also known as “after-cataract.” It is caused by tiny clumps of cells and thin scar tissue on the inner back surface (or posterior wall) of the capsule. To remedy the problem, the ophthalmologist uses a Nd:YAG laser to create a small hole in the posterior wall of the capsule.

At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, we provide total eye care: medical, surgical, and diagnostic. We examine the eye with a variety of instruments to determine the type, size, and location of the cataract. We’re located at 540 Jett Drive. The decision for cataract surgery is always based on the patient’s visual needs (in all types of situations) and the expectation that visual function will be improved. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 606-666-9393. We specialize in “EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES.”

P.S. Nd:YAG laser posterior capsulotomy is an outpatient procedure that is painless and requires no anesthesia.

New Years

By Billy Davis

N (Never) Never, never in this coming new year go against your better judgement and common sense. Never lie, chest or steal, be nice & good, be a role model.

E (Eat) Eat less and eat better. They say, and it is only partially true, that you are what you eat. Don't eat up like there is a famine coming. More vegetables and fruits. Sweet to the lips, fat on the hips. (Jeanie Barger)

W (Wake) Wake up and be a winner with new opportunities. Wake up to the people around you that can be good friends. And those you can encourage.

Y (Yank) Yank out old stumps in your life, the ones that are no longer profiting you. They are dead weight in your life.

E (Evaluate) Evaluate your life in a realistic way. Look at reality. You must adjust to it, you can't change it. "From principles is derived probability, but truth or certainty is obtained only from facts (Hawthorne)."

A (Alert) Be alert, don't live in a dream world. Be alert and sharp each moment.

R (Rebel) Rebel in coming year against injustice and all those things that drag us down. But always be non-violent.

S (Success) Shoot for success in the new year. Nothing succeeds like success.

A different view By Betty Crabtree

I like to compare translations and as I was reading from II Timothy 3 recently I was running references on verse 5 which says (in NKJ) "having a form (image) of godliness but denying it's power. And from such people turn away!"

What kind of people is the Christian to "turn away from?" Turn away from, meaning, "to have nothing to do with to avoid." #665 Strong's Concordance. Verse 2-4 tells us who. For men will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, unloving, unforgiving, slanderers, with out self control, brutal, despisers of good, traitors, headstrong, haughty, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God. (Whoa! That's a bunch of messed up people who practice any one or more of these)

And what does it mean, "denying its power?" The power they deny is the heart of Christianity. II Timothy 2:19 tells us "the solid foundation of God stands, having this seal: "The Lord knows those who are His," and "Let everyone who names the name of Christ (or the Lord) depart from iniquity." Iniquity, meaning wrongdoing.

We have the fact of a risen Redeemer, the truth of the inspired Word (Bible) and the indwelling of the Holy Spirit working within believers and transforming their lives. That's the power its speaking of!

The first verse of chapter 3 in II Tim. begins by saying, "But know this, that in the last days perilous times will come." Perilous meaning harsh, savage, difficult, dangerous, painful, fierce, grievous, hard to deal with. The word describes a society that is barren of virtue (moral righteousness or excellence) but abounding with vices.

Are we there yet?

Sure, the sun is great. It's nice to not live in a frozen wasteland, after all. But the sun is pretty terrifying, too. It sends a dangerous stream of fast-moving electrons, protons, and other even smaller particles, called photons, toward Earth.

You may have heard of one of the ways Earth shields itself—the ozone layer. The ozone layer, which is high in the atmosphere, blocks much of the sun’s damaging UV radiation, which comes from the photons. But there’s another shield further away. This takes care of the larger, fast-moving particles—the electrons and protons. And scientists have just discovered how strong this other shield is.

Two donut-shaped belts called the Van Allen belts surround our planet. Scientists have known about them for a long time. For the most part, the closer belt contains protons and the further belt contains electrons. Earth's magnetic field shapes them and holds them in place.

Now, scientists have new information from a pair of NASA probes sent into orbit back in 2012. The big discovery is about the edge of the outer donut that is closest to Earth. It's pretty much an unbreakable shield against the fastest moving particles thrown at us by the sun. Scientists have even called it "impenetrable."

Candy swap

By Glenna Coleman, CEA for 4-H Youth Development

On December 18th the Lee County Extension Service Candy Swap was held at the Happy Top Community Center. Lee County 4-H Agent Glenna Coleman along with volunteers Sherry Lanham and Kathy Kincaid demonstrated several easy and affordable candy recipes while youth made a holiday craft.

The Lee County Extension Service would like to thank Sherry Lanham and Kathy Kincaid for presenting their candy recipes during this event. Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Busy times at LC Care & Rehab

Submitted by Katie Coburn

This past Wednesday, the residents enjoyed a New Years Eve Party. Many residents and staff enjoyed the opportunity to get out into the dining and enjoy snacks, music, games and a chance to review the past year. The residents seemed to have a great time, some even had a chance to get up and “cut a rug” to some great oldies. We have many great activities planned for this coming year, including bowling at the Rec Center, fishing at a local pond, attending the annual Mud Sling and many other great events. If you, your school group or church group would be interested in coming to the nursing home feel free to call the facility at 606-464-3611. We will put you on our calendars! Our residents enjoy so much when groups come in to perform or even just to visit. We are very fortunate to have a few great volunteers who give of their time and come to the facility. But we NEED You!!

Flu season hitting hard, clinics overwhelmed; 6 deaths reported in Ky.

By Pam Wright
The Advocate-Messenger

A Kentucky family's worst nightmare came to pass just before Christmas when their 6-year-old son died from the flu in his father's arms as he was waiting to be seen by a doctor in an emergency room.

Mikey Gualpa, an asthma sufferer, died just two days after becoming ill with the flu. Doctors say the Florence boy's underlying chronic condition was likely a factor in his death, according to WCPO in Cincinnati.

Overall, at least 15 children across the country have died from complications of the flu through Dec. 20, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In Kentucky, six deaths, including Gualpa's, are attributed to complications from the flu, according to the Kentucky Department of Public Health.

The little boy's death highlights the dangers of the virus that has struck hard and stuck early for this time of the year in central Kentucky.

"The flu is now widespread in many states in the U.S. including Kentucky," said Debbie Edelen, an advanced practice registered nurse at Baptist Express Care Clinic at the Danville Walmart. "While many people have taken the flu vaccine this season, there are still many more who have not."

"Many illnesses are prevalent now including upper respiratory viruses (colds), sinus infections, bronchitis and the flu," she said.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, this year's type-A influenza — the H3N1 strain — has modified a bit, or "drifted," from the flu shot developed for this season. However, the CDC also notes that this year's flu shot will still offer protection.

"In past seasons, during which predominant circulating influenza viruses have been antigenically drifted, decreased vaccine effectiveness has been observed. However, vaccination has been found to provide some protection against drifted viruses," says the CDC. "Though reduced, this cross-protection might reduce the likelihood of severe outcomes such as hospitalization and death. In addition, vaccination will offer protection against circulating influenza strains that have not undergone significant antigenic drift from the vaccine viruses, such as influenza A (H1N1) and B viruses."

"Most medical offices, health departments, pharmacies and walk-in clinics still have flu vaccine available and most insurance policies pay the entire cost of the vaccine," said Edelen. "If you are not concerned about getting the flu yourself, consider those around you. The flu is especially dangerous for the very young and the very old and can result in serious complications, hospitalization and even death."

"If you have young children, elderly grandparents, or others in your family, church or worksite that have illnesses such as asthma, diabetes, heart disease or COPD (emphysema), consider getting a flu shot so they are protected. Remember, people can be contagious with the flu for 24 hours before their symptoms develop. Someone can have the flu without knowing it then spread it to another person who may be at very high risk for complications," she said.

Edelen said you should seek medical care quickly if flu-like symptoms develop, including cough, sore throat, fever (although not everyone develops a fever), of 100 degrees or higher fever or feeling feverish (not everyone with the flu has a fever), a runny or stuffy nose, headache and/or body aches, chills and fatigue. In some, especially children, vomiting and/or diarrhea may be present.

The CDC encourages early treatment of influenza because the use of antiviral medications like Tamiflu and Relenza, which can decrease the severity of symptoms and shorten the length of illness, are most effective if taken within 48 hours of the onset of symptoms.

"Evidence from past influenza seasons and the 2009 H1N1 pandemic has shown that treatment with neuraminidase inhibitors has clinical and public health benefit in reducing severe outcomes of influenza and, when indicated, should be initiated as soon as possible after illness onset," the CDC advisory noted.

However, Edelen says anti-viral medications are becoming difficult to obtain.

"Tamiflu has now been prescribed so often that many pharmacies have run out of the medication for several days at a time, making it difficult to find this medication for patients with the flu," she said. "For most healthy people, the flu will run its course and resolve without Tamiflu or medical care. However, as has been reported in the news recently, some people become very ill with flu and don't survive."

Despite the "drifting" of this year's influenza strain, the CDC continues to recommend that all people six months or older be vaccinated against influenza and said there is still time to get vaccinated for this year.

To prevent the spread of the flu, the CDC recommends that individuals get a flu vaccine if you haven't done so already. Antibodies created through vaccination with one influenza virus can offer some protection against different influenza viruses (this is called cross-protection). A person who is vaccinated is likely to have less severe illness as well.

Other precautionary measures include cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze, and throw the tissue in the trash after you use it; wash hands often with soap and water, especially after coughing or sneezing; avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth as germs spread this way; try to avoid close contact with sick people; and do not return to work or school until you have been fever-free for at least 24 hours.

In children, emergency warning signs that need urgent medical attention include:

- Fast breathing or trouble breathing
- Bluish skin color
- Not drinking enough fluids
- Not waking up or not interacting
- Being so irritable that the child does not want to be held
- Flu-like symptoms improve but then return with fever and worse cough
- Fever with a rash

In adults, emergency warning signs that need urgent medical attention include:

- Difficulty breathing or shortness of breath
- Pain or pressure in the chest or abdomen
- Sudden dizziness or confusion
- Severe or persistent vomiting

Another year older

George Orwell said happiness can exist only in acceptance and apparently you can go through a large chunk of your life achieving acceptance, says the Association of Mature American Citizens.

In fact, according to David Brooks, who writes about culture and social science, older folks are happier folks and that the happiest people of them all are those between the ages of 82 and 85.

In a recent OpEd article in the New York Times, Brooks wrote: “I’d rather think that elder happiness is an accomplishment, not a condition that people get better at living through effort, by mastering specific skills. I’d like to think that people get steadily better at handling life’s challenges. In middle age, they are confronted by stressful challenges they can’t control, like having teenage children.

But, in old age, they have more control over the challenges they will tackle and they get even better at addressing them.”

So, says AMAC, as the new year gets under way and we consider the fact that we are all another year older, take heart and consider the real possibility that the coming years will, indeed, be among the happiest of our lives.

Legal

Section 92.03 - subsection (I)

DILAPIDATED STRUCTURE: Any structure, which for wants of repair, lack of sufficient fire escapes, deterioration, the accumulation of trash, garbage, or debris, being a haven for insects, rodents, or other vermin, is unsafe, unsanitary, especially liable to fire loss, unfit for human habitation, occupancy or use, or is dangerous or injurious to the health or safety of the occupants of the structure, or the other residents of the neighborhood or city.

Section 92.04 - subsection (D)

Whenever a nuisance is discovered, the authorized city officials shall give 30 days written notice to remedy the nuisance situation. The notice shall be mailed certified to the last known address of the owner of property, as it appears on the current tax assessment roll. Upon failure of the owner of the property to comply, the authorized city official is authorized to send city employees or individual (s) hired or contracted by the city upon the property to remedy the situation.

Section 92.04 - subsection (E) - line (2)

The lien shall be notice to all persons from the time of its recording and shall bear interest at the rate of 5% thereafter until paid. The lien created shall take precedence over all other subsequent liens, except state, county, school board and city taxes, and may be enforced by judicial proceeding.
